My sincere apologies about the foul up with the November meeting. No one in the city alerted me to the the Bellaire HS fun run; and I missed the flyer that might have been shoved into my door. I was able to catch the last part of Raf Batista's FileMaker presentation at the last meeting. it has been a while since I used FMP but it still is a very valid piece of software if you need to collect data.

Apple released a new MacBook Pro in October. Lots of smart ideas. I saw one at MicroCenter on Black Friday but did not have a real chance to put it through its paces but row of display or controls or what ever is taking the place of the function key area looked really interesting. I have not seen any reviews of the MBP yet but we will see if it is a winner.

There will be people that will bay at the moon stating that Apple has lost its mind and complain that this port is gone. You need an adapter for this port. We will all just need to see how things short out. Like I said above we will need to see the reviews from the various websites to get an idea how the machine will work out.

We just finished the national election and in December the membership will have a chance accept the slate of candidates submitted by the nominations committee. We have one notable hole. Jack Adair has decided not to run for another term as Secretary. Now is your chance to help and chart the direction of HAAUG, by becoming a member of the board. The duties are not that stressful; take notes at the board meeting produce and distribute the minutes to the board, and handle any item that are required by law. I want to thank Jack for his service which was excellent.

Starting in January HAAUG will need to move to a different location as the city starts the redevelopment of the City Hall complex. The City will be renovating the "Civic Center" area of the current city hall for use by the Police Department.* HAAUG has made arrangements to use the CenterPoint Energy Meeting room which is located above Bellaire Aquatics Center. HAAUG used this area before when the civic center schedule got messed up. I believe that the facility will function well for our needs. We will communicate with the membership to keep you up to date.

January is our traditional Winter swap meet and we will be trying to bring in more that the few vendors that we have attracted in the past. If you know of someone that has technology for sale have them contact me (president@haaug.org).

How to Stop iCloud Calendar Spam by Andy Affleck

A new and pernicious kind of spam has crawled from the ooze to take advantage of an iCloud feature. By default, if someone sends you an event invitation, iCloud automatically inserts it into your calendar and prompts you to accept or decline the invitation within the Calendar app on your Mac or iOS device. This is a nice feature when you're receiving actual invitations to meetings or outings with friends.

Unfortunately, spammers have discovered that they can use it to send you ads in the form of invitations. Right before Thanksgiving, I received a pair of ads that were all-day events advertising a sale on sunglasses. These events had alerts set, and they appeared on all of my devices (home Mac, work Mac, iPhone, iPad, and Apple Watch).

Needless to say, I wasn't happy about this and went to remove these events from my calendar. Unfortunately, if you attempt to remove an event, either by deleting it or by selecting it and choosing Edit > Cut, Calendar informs you that removing the event will cause a notification to be sent to the event organizer.

That seems like a bad idea. The general assumption is that you never want to respond to a spammer because doing so could lead to receiving even more spam. I don't know if this is actually true; it seems unlikely that modern spammers would bother to collect and use such data. Regardless, it feels wrong to acknowledge such spam in any way.

In order to remove the event without sending a notification back to the spammer, you need to follow a few steps that you might not think of on your own:

In Calendar on your Mac, create a new calendar by choosing File > New Calendar > On My Mac. You don't even have to name it — "Untitled" works just fine.

Drag the spam events to the new Untitled calendar in Calendar's sidebar.

Control-click the Untitled calendar and choose Delete. Calendar asks if you want to delete it or merge it with another calendar. Click Delete.

Obviously, this method for dealing with calendar spam is annoying, and not the sort of thing you would want to do regularly. Luckily, you can keep such spam off your calendar by disabling the feature that adds event invitations to your calendar automatically. Once you do this, you'll receive event invitations via email, and you can accept or reject them from there.

To change the invitation notification setting, follow these steps on the iCloud Web site:

1. Log in to your account and click Calendar.
2. Click the gear in the bottom left and choose Preferences.
3. Click the Advanced tab, and under Invitations at the bottom, select the Email to yourEmailAddress radio button.

On the plus side, making this change may mean that your email spam filter will catch future spammy event invitations, so you may never see them again. However, if you also get legitimate event invitations, your spam filter might erroneously identify them as spam too, so pay attention when you might be receiving a meeting invitation.

It's up to Apple to solve this problem for real. The first step would be to allow the user to delete a calendar invitation without notifying the sender. In the real world, you're allowed to ignore an invitation, and the virtual world should honor that as well. Slightly more complex would be a setting to receive event invitations only from people in your contacts list. Between these two options, most users should be able to eliminate calendar spam or at least make it easily deleted.

After initial publication of this article, Apple made a statement to iMore:

We are sorry that some of our users are receiving spam calendar invitations. We are actively working to address this issue by identifying and blocking suspicious senders and spam in the invites being sent.

We can hope Apple puts an end to this problem, but if not, you can use the techniques in this article to protect yourself from calendar spam.

Board of Directors Meeting Minutes

Houston Area Apple Users Group

Minutes of the Meeting of the Board of Directors September 17, 2016

Location: Bellaire Civic Center, 7008 S. Rice Avenue, Bellaire, Texas

Attendees: Phil Booth, David Jaschke, Clair Jaschke, Jack Adair, Ryan Eisworth, Steve Bridgham, Mike Epstein, Mike King

Call to Order: By President Phil Booth at 1:22 PM following the conclusion of the October General Meeting. Thanks very much to Ryan Eisworth and Mike King for their presentation on MacOS Sierra and iOS 10.

Monthly Reports

Secretary - Jack Adair: The minutes of the September 2016 BOD meeting were approved unanimously.

Treasurer's Report - Clair Jaschke: Clair reported that our checking account balance as of the end of September 2016 was $3,536.37. Our savings account balance was $10,003.72, for total cash on hand of $13,540.09. All but one bill has been paid (the post office bill) and all monies have been deposited. The inventory has been adjusted to account for the shirts that we gave to Goodwill. Meetup took out $88.16 in September 2016 for six months of service; Ryan will send the details to Clair so that he can be reimbursed.

Membership - David Jaschke: Dave reported that we ended the month of September with 132 members, which was down by one from August, and down from 138 members (a difference of 6 members) from September 30, 2015. We had two transactions in September, of which one was a new member and one was a two-year renewal. Both transactions were by check (no credit card).

Programming Report - Steve Bridgham: Steve reported that Raf Batista (FileMaker) is still scheduled for November. We have an issue for December in that Doug Smith will not be able to present. Phil reported that we have dates established for 2017, although there is a potential problem for April in that the third Saturday (April 15) is Easter weekend, so we may look at the 22nd.

HAAUG Electronic Communications Systems - Ryan Eisworth: Ryan reported that we are going to Square as our new electronic membership service. It does not yet have all the bells and whistles we would like, but we are now able to get membership transactions over the Internet.

New Business

Report on KAGI Alternatives: As previously mentioned, we now have Square as our new electronic payments service.

Meeting Location Info: We are now paying rent on a monthly basis. We do not yet know if the City of Bellaire is doing a FunRun in November, nor do we know if the current facility is available in December. As previously mentioned, Phil has reserved dates in the Center Point room for all of 2017.

As far as the upcoming January 2017 Swap Meet is concerned, Ryan suggested that we start registering folks now as vendors or attendees. Ryan has already made up a press release for the January 21, 2017 Swap Meet date, and he read the proposed text to the board. We will put the Swap Meet in the Center Point room if possible, and Phil indicated he would check this in December. The Board approved holding the Swap Meet in the Center Point room. We will likely need to rent rectangular tables to optimize the sales experience as we have only eleven 60-inch circular tables available.

Ryan will send out draft Swap Meet announcements for the board to read before submitting anything for press publication. He will need to recreate the registration form.

Dave reported that he would like to move to a new post office or have mail sent to his house as the current post office will no longer be convenient for him. Phil indicated he would prefer to use a public post office box. We need to make such change this month, and this was approved by the Board.

Ryan will talk to Doug Smith about Apple Sales Web.

At Clair's request, Phil appointed the following committees for 2017 activities:

Budget Committee: Ryan Eisworth, Steve Bridgham, Jack Adair

Nominations Committee: Phil Booth, Dave Jaschke, Mike King

Adjournment: At 1:42 PM
